

The Air Show

Dawlish Air Show has grown from a visit by the Red Arrows in Carnival Week to its current internationally renowned status.

The air show is free to attend and is funded entirely through private sponsorship, donations and programme sales.

It is a unique Air Show set, not on an airfield, but against the magnificent back-drop of Lyme Bay. It is one of the largest free air shows in the United Kingdom. No wonder display teams return year after year and new teams are keen to take part.

In 2009 Dawlish was the venue for an historic link-up between the Avro Vulcan and The Red Arrows.

This was the first time in seventeen years that the formation had flown and was enthusiastically greeted by a crowd of over 100,000 spectators.

Previous years have included displays by :

- ▶ RAF Battle of Britain Memorial Flight
- ▶ Search and Rescue Demonstration
- ▶ Royal Air Force Typhoon
- ▶ Royal Air Force Hawk
- ▶ The Royal Jordanian Falcons

As well as flying displays, members of the public can get close to aircraft static displays at Dawlish Warren and Holcombe.
